

Martha Reeder
Senior Associate

Martha Reeder is a Senior Associate with the National Alliance of Children's Trust and Prevention Funds. She leads work with the Alliance's popular Bringing the Protective Factors Framework to Life in Your Work in-person training of trainers and the online training. She is the staff support for the Alliance National Parent Partnership Council (ANPPC) and, with Pat Stanislaski, co-authored the Alliance's neglect prevention training, Let's Talk About... Preventing Child Neglect.

She leads the Alliance's work with national partners related to helping families build protective factors and provides multiple supports to the Alliance's network of state children's trusts and prevention funds. She joined the Alliance to lead the previous Early Childhood Initiative and contributed significantly to the expansion of the protective factors framework across the county.

Before her work with the Alliance, she served as the Early Childhood Comprehensive Systems Coordinator for the State of Arkansas, where she helped develop the blueprint for Arkansas' Quality Rating and Improvement System, Better Beginnings. She also brings a doctorate degree and years of experience teaching music at a college level. This history has transferred well to her work at the Alliance managing complex projects and developing learning and training opportunities.

Martha lives in Little Rock, Arkansas with her husband Larry. She is mother to two daughters and grandmother to one granddaughter and one grandson.
